

Holidays are for lovers...especially at Christmas. That's why Mitchell Stone and his wife Mady wrote "My Christmas Card to You" with thoughts of those couples in love whom, for whatever reason, must be apart from one another at Christmastime.

With lyrics like "I wish you joy, happiness and me," a lot of people who've listened to "My Christmas Card to You" have compared its sweet sentiment with that of "White Christmas," the anthem for homesick American soldiers involved overseas for the holidays during World War II. In fact, those who've heard "My Christmas Card to You" have said that with all the turmoil in the world today, it should be the new song for our men and women now involved in conflicts worldwide.

"My Christmas Card to You" has been released on Mitchell Stone's new CD, "The Ears Have It" available at online music stores and at http://emstonemusicpublishing.com/Christmas_mp3. So download this "Christmas card"...load it onto your iPod or dub it to your favorite Christmas-songs CD...and then send it to the one you love for Christmas!
