

Christmas song: "New York's Cold this time Of Year"

This is an original Christmas song. It was produced and recorded in a home studio in saverna Park, Md in 1996 through the efforts of producer and instrumentalist Phill Peraldi and singer Ronald coleman. Ronald Coleman and Phill Peraldi at the time performed as a duo in the Washington-Baltimore region as "One Plus One". The song is on a cd entitled "Beyond the Harbour". The production took many hours in a damp rather dank basement; but, we were fervently dogged about getting it done. Give it a listen. It may be too long for most radio stations; but, it can really give one the feeling that he or she is on the streets of New York city in the crowd in the snow during a Christmas rush of a holiday.

We no longer perform together. Ronald Coleman still performs in the Baltimore area as the lead singer in a band called "Highheat". You can find picture and information on him and the band at mdparty.com/highheat.

"I/we am/are the author(s)/composer(s) of this song and owner of the intellectual rights. I am giving Santa.net permission to use this song on the Santa.net Christmas Song Search websit
As material belonging to Phill Peraldi and Ronald coleman as "One Plus One"

Ronald coleman